Newsy Notes: On Tuesday, July 21, the College of Human Medicine and officials from Providence-St. Johns celebrated the opening of the Southeast Michigan Campus of the College of Human Medicine. Many current fourth year students will be enjoying elective experiences at this new site this year, and beginning in July of 2016, approximately 30 third-year students will call that campus home for their Block III rotations. We welcome the Southeast Michigan Campus as our seventh community campus!

Curriculum Process and Progress: CHM is one of 10 medical schools participating in the AAMC pilot project studying Core Entrustable Professional Activities for Entering Residents, known by the acronym CEPAER. The goal of the project is to understand the curricular, assessment, and faculty development efforts that will best enable students to be entrusted to perform 13 key tasks required of new interns.

The College is actively determining our curricular activities and assessments for each of these core EPAs, and will use this new section of the Monday Monthly to report on process and progress in this effort. The ultimate goal of this project is to maximize patient safety and new resident competence and confidence at the transition from undergraduate education to residency training.

Kudos: Congratulations to Corey Madura, Grand Rapids Community Administrator and Block III Supervisor, on being elected as a member at large to a 2-year term on the AAMC Group on Student Affairs.

Academic Affairs People You Should Know: Dr. Valerie Overholt is the Community Assistant Dean for the new Michigan State University College of Human Medicine Southeast Michigan Campus. After earning her osteopathic medical degree from the Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine, Dr. Overholt completed Family Practice residency training at Detroit Osteopathic Hospital, followed by additional training in Adolescent Medicine. She is board-certified in Family Practice. Dr. Overholt worked as the Medical Director of the Taylor Teen Health Center, and then the Medical Director of the Oakwood Teen Health Centers. In 2007, she became the Director of Students and the Clerkship Director for Internal Medicine at Providence Hospital in Southfield, MI, where she later assumed the additional role of Director of the Surgical and Procedural Skills Training Center in 2012. She is a Clinical Assistant Professor at both the Michigan State University College Human Medicine and the College of Osteopathic Medicine, and is currently facilitating the development of the new campus for the first cohort of MSU College of Human Medicine students scheduled to open in July 2016. In her free time, she enjoys reading, gardening and cycling in the Detroit area and Ontario, Canada. She is an avid Detroit supporter and is excited by the city’s resurgence.
Continuous Quality Improvement Focus: This month’s CQI focus is on:

Tips for Students: All students, with the guidance of Mrs. Wilbanks, should have created a log-in for the AAMC’s Careers in Medicine website. What you may not have realized is that this site is frequently updated with information about different careers, how to choose a residency program, interviewing tips, and even alternative careers for those who decide not to pursue clinical medicine. Next time you need a study break, or are feeling overwhelmed by all of your options, take a look at the website: https://www.aamc.org/cim/profile.

You can also follow Careers In Medicine on Facebook and Twitter!"

Patient Care Pearl: The best patient care takes place at the intersection of evidence and patient-centeredness. In order to accomplish this, caregivers need to understand the options and be able to communicate them to patients in a way that is clear. Providing the best information, and eliciting the patient’s values and preferences enable the most effective partnership and decision-making.
