

DESCRIBING, PROMOTING, AND VALUING EXCELLENT TEACHING

Tuesday, February 27
12:00 p.m. - 1:00 p.m.
Virtual

Register at https://msu.zoom.us/webinar/register/WN_1dbEHZhgQ_WKRZ6Riaw7fw#/registration.

Recording available to registrants.

In this webinar, five teaching experts from the College of Human Medicine will participate in a panel discussion for our college on “teaching excellence.” Rather than a “how-to” on teaching in particular contexts, this panel will take a step back and share thinking about what makes teaching of any kind “excellent,” what kinds of evidence help us understand if teaching is excellent, and what kinds of processes support the development of excellent teaching.

The panelists are:

- Julie Christensen, Assistant Professor – Fixed Term
- Lisy Colon-Berlingeri, Assistant Professor – Fixed Term
- Amy Greenberg, Specialist-Curriculum Development – Fixed Term
- Anthony Paganini, Associate Professor – Fixed Term
- Kirstin Parkin, Associate Professor – Fixed Term

These panelists all have roles in promoting excellent teaching in the college, which they will talk about during the presentation.

This information is important for any MSU-paid faculty member with assigned teaching effort, and for those who support or evaluate people with assigned teaching effort in working toward promotion. Community-based clinical/adjunct faculty with teaching effort on behalf of MSU should also find it useful.

Sponsored by the College of Human Medicine Office of Faculty Affairs and Development.